Yankees Win World Series Over Brooklyn

Defeated Dodgers Four Games To One; Final Game Today

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, Oct. 6.—(P)—The New York Yankees won the World Series today, four games to one, as they defeated the luckless Dodgers, 3 to 1, in a tense struggle marked by a near free-for-all fight between the rival players in the fifth inning.

"Tiny" Bonham, 200-pound Yankee mound star, subdued the Dodgers with four hits to best Whitlow Wyatt in a stirring pitching duel before the largest crowd of the three games here—34,027. Wyatt allowed only six safeties and struck out nine batters, but lost the battle in the second inning when he issued a walk to Charley Keller and was solved for singles by Bill Dickey and Joe Gordon.

The Dodgers gained their lone run in the third, which Wyatt opened with a double to left, reached third on an infield hit and scored on Pete Reiser's out-field fly. From there on until the final out of the series in the ninth inning they got only one more blow off Bonham, a single by Walker in the eighth.

The game play-by-play.
First Inning:—
Rolf grounded to Reese who threw to Coscarart forcing Strum, but the relay to Camilli was slow and wide.
Henrich, walked.
DiMaggio fanned and Owen threw to Riggs to catch Rolf at third for a double play.

DODGERS—Walker filed to Keller.
On the first pitch Riggs tipped the ball foul and it struck Dickey, who fell to the ground in obvious pain while Manager McCarthy and the Yankee players crowded around him. He apparently had been hit in the groin. Dickey was helped to his feet and play was resumed. Riggs shot a hot grounder to Gordon and was thrown out.

Reiser tripled against the wall in centerfield.
Camilli raised a high fly to Rizzuto on the foul line behind third base.

Second Inning:—
YANKEES—Keller walked.
Dickey singled into right center and Keller, slid safely into third. Wyatt made a wild pitch far over Owen's outstretching glove and Keller scored while Dickey went to second. Gordon drove a single off Coscarart's glove and Dickey scored.

Rizzuto bounced to Coscarart forcing Gordon.
Bonham struck out.
Strum bunted and was thrown out by Riggs to Camilli.
Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

DODGERS—Medwick walked.
Reese filed high to DiMaggio.
Owen raised a high fly to Keller.
Coscarart bounced to Bonham who threw to Strum for the out.

Third Inning:—
YANKEES—Rolf walked on five pitches. Wyatt protested to umpire McGowan.
Henrich filed deep to Reiser and Rolf fled first.
DiMaggio fanned on three pitches. It was his second straight strikeout.

Keller grounded to Coscarart and was thrown out.
DODGERS—Wyatt, lined a

Unusual Happenings In Many Sections of United States

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(P)—(The Special News Service)—Ever hear of a duck dry-cleaning establishment? A horse equipped with a French dictionary? A floating diner for cows?

Those were the baffling behind-the-scenes developments that led the national monkeyshine marathon this week.

Norris Palmer Tells Rotarians Of Office Work

Experience of Employment Service Subject of Talk

The Sedalia Rotary club held its regular noonday meeting today at the Bothwell hotel with Dr. Roy M. Keller, president, presiding. W. Norris Palmer, manager of the Employment Service office in Sedalia, was the principal speaker.

Mr. Palmer was introduced by John McMullan, program chairman, and in part Mr. Palmer said:

"Using experience gained from the labor problems brought out in World War I, the employment services of the nation have more easily expanded to take care of the sudden and tremendous demand put upon industry for workers.

Keeps Industry Supplied
By a system involving clearance of information concerning available workers and jobs, the Employment Service is able to fairly accurately keep industry supplied with available labor.

Short of that, the Employment Service has the responsibility of recommending to the proper authorities various training programs for training inexperienced workers to meet current and future demands for skilled workers.

"Since the Employment Service has been designated by the OPM as the official employment agency for defense industries, wholehearted co-operation has been received from all employers."

Inter-City Meeting
The first of the inter-city meetings will be held Monday night, October 13 at the Montserrat Recreational area, at which time the Warrensburg and Sedalia clubs will act as host to the four-city meeting. Rotarians will also attend the meeting.

Nolan Bricken, chairman in charge announced the speaker would be Rotarian George Hunt of Kansas City.

Guy Peabody, chairman of membership, introduced the following new members: W. Norris Palmer, Howard Watterson, J. Fred King, Ernest W. Baker, Ralph Guenther, George Lockett, and Fred S. Stafford.

L. D. Brandeis, Liberal Jurist Dies Sunday

Personal Message Sent To His Family By The President

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(P)—Death has ended the career of Louis Dembitz Brandeis, noted liberal jurist and first Jew ever named to the supreme court.

The former associate justice, long a sufferer from a heart ailment, died shortly after 7 o'clock last night. It was heart trouble which prompted his retirement from the supreme court on February 13, 1939, and a severe attack at his home here Wednesday led to his death. He was 84.

Louis D. Brandeis

The family announced that the funeral, for which arrangements were incomplete, would be strictly private and requested that no flowers be sent. Memorial services would be held later, the announcement said.

Appointed to the tribunal by President Wilson in 1916, he was the first member of the Jewish race to receive that honor. There have been two others since—the late Benjamin N. Cardozo and Felix Frankfurter.

From the start of his supreme court service in 1916 Brandeis found a sympathetic soul in his friend Oliver Wendell Holmes and he frequently joined with "the great dissenter" in minority opinions. When Holmes retired, Brandeis became the oldest justice.

Retired In 1939
The jurist retired from the bench on February 13, 1939 at the age of 82. His departure came suddenly and dramatically.

He had participated in the court's activity that day, but upon adjournment sent a letter to President.

Preparing Plans For New Factory

R. J. Parnall, H. L. Ruppert and Max Walkowitz of St. Louis, representing the Tober-Saifer Shoe Company met with Chamber of Commerce committees Sunday completing arrangements for the establishment of the Sedco Shoe Company in Sedalia. The necessary papers for forming the corporation are being prepared, and plans for specifications are being completed for the erection of a new factory building.

The treasurer for the special campaign is Ernest C. Martin, who with members of his committee, are completing arrangements for their campaign to sell twenty-five thousand dollars worth of 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock in the Sedco Shoe Company. Plans for solicitation are being made today and the general campaign will start Wednesday morning, when team workers will meet for an 8:00 o'clock breakfast at Williams Cafe.

At that time they will be given their assignments and will devote the day, which has been designated as New Factory Day, to selling stock in the new shoe factory. Members of the committee pointed out that if every worker in Sedalia will buy at least one share of stock the campaign can be completed at an early date.

Germans Stop Red Forces From Landing

Communique Refers To Gigantic Drive Mentioned by Hitler

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(P)—Germany has achieved "additional successes" in offensive operations on the eastern front and has "completely crushed" a Russian attempt to land strong forces west of beleaguered Leningrad, it was reported officially today.

(The guarded reference in the high command's communique today to offensive operations on the eastern front and authoritative advices in London that the Germans apparently have begun a major drive on Moscow indicated that this new push was the development to which Adolf Hitler referred last Friday in an address in the Berlin Sportsplatz. Hitler told Germans and the world about a "gigantic new development which began in the last 48 hours.")

No Further Reference
There was no further reference in the communique issued from Hitler's headquarters to the offensive operations but the Germans declared the landing attempt was "completely crushed through the determined action of German troops."

The Russians were supported by the fire of the entire Kronstadt fortress on the Red navy island base which guards the seaway entrance to Leningrad, and by coastal artillery.

"A violent attack from within to break through the German encirclement collapsed," the communique asserted of the Leningrad action. "The enemy suffered heavy and bloody losses."

Bombed Sea Port
The German air force bombed a port on the Sea of Azov as well as an important traffic junction west of Moscow and military objectives in Leningrad, the communique added.

Nazi planes also sank a 2,500-ton vessel west of Brest, German-occupied France, and bombed "war vital institutions" in the Shetland islands, the communique said. Southeastern England ports also were reported raided.

The report of offensive operations came within a few hours after semi official sources spoke knowingly of a vast new Nazi offensive developing in the east.

Bound Over To Criminal Court

Donald Fields, arrested last July, today was charged with attempt to pass a forged check, and appearing before Judge C. W. Bente, sitting as ex-officio justice of the peace, waived his preliminary hearing and was bound over to the action of the October term of criminal court.

Charges of forgery were dismissed in circuit court this morning upon the recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Job Harned and the second charge was filed today.

He will be taken before Judge Dimmitt Hoffman in criminal court this week.

Waters Receding After Heavy Rains of Last Week End

Sunday was clear in Sedalia, after a week of intermittent rains, but rain began falling again after midnight today, and continued at intervals throughout the day. The rainfall from 5 o'clock Saturday night, until 5 o'clock Sunday morning was .45 of an inch, and an additional .28 of an inch fell up to 2 o'clock this afternoon. This makes a total of 8.10 inches of rain in Sedalia since September 28.

The temperature Sunday was 65 at 7 a. m., 80 at 1 p. m., 78 at 5 p. m. Today it was 67 at 7 p. m., 81 at 1 p. m. and at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Some Crops Lost
Crops in Pettis county along the Flat Creek and Muddy Creek bottoms are practically lost, according to farmers in those vicinities. The rains of Friday and Saturday caused both creeks to overflow their banks and cover the late corn, in some places washing it away. Train service over the Missouri Pacific and the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad has again been resumed although trains are operating a few minutes late from the east and north.

FDR Discusses Neutrality Law With Senators

Conference On Probable Revision Set For Tuesday

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 6.—(P)—The temporary White House announced today that Secretary Hull, Vice President Wallace, five senators and two house members would confer with President Roosevelt in Washington tomorrow on revision of the neutrality law.

Mr. Roosevelt has indicated the meeting would enable him to reach a decision on whether to recommend that the law be scrapped or that it simply be modified to permit the arming of American merchantmen and, perhaps to let American vessels sail into combat zones from which they now are barred.

The senators invited to the White House are Barkley (D-Ky.) majority leader; Connally (D-Tex.), foreign relations committee chairman; George (D-Ga.), former chairman of the Committee; McNary (R-Ore.), the minority leader; and Austin (R-Vt.), assistant minority leader.

Endorsed Cargo Carriers
Barkley, Connally and Austin have endorsed both the arming of cargo carriers and the removal of the ban against their entering combat areas, while George is reported to favor only the arming of ships and McNary is represented as being against any major change in the neutrality act for the present.

The fact that the senate conferees outnumbered those from the house indicated that the administration apparently intended to obtain its first test on changing the law in the senate chamber. Not only does the senate have a more intimate relationship to international affairs, but it also may provide the greater obstacle to revision.

Polls have indicated, however, that the senate would vote to

Russian Armies
Reported In Strong LinesSaid To Have Pushed Germans
Back 21 Miles

MOSCOW, Oct. 6.—(P)—Russia's armies were reported today entrenched in straighter and stronger positions than at any time since the German invasion began and war dispatches declared they had scored notable gains in the Leningrad and Ukraine sectors.

Despite admittedly huge losses, the Soviet soldiers were said to have pushed the Germans back two to three miles at some points before Leningrad and advanced as much as 21 miles on the southwestern sector, where the Germans stand at the gates of the Crimea.

But the Russians said the virtual no-quarter fighting of the last 15 weeks had taken a colossal toll of the belligerents.

Reply To Hitler

Alexander Shcherbakov, director of the Soviet information bureau, announced in detailed reply to Adolf Hitler's Friday claim of 2,500,000 Russian casualties that they actually had lost 1,128,000 men killed, wounded and missing since the start of the war June 22.

He ridiculed Hitler's figures as "fantastic and delirious data" and asserted the Germans have lost 3,000,000 casualties, almost as much in 15 weeks as the Kaiser lost in two years of the World War.

280,000 Men Killed

Shcherbakov listed Soviet casualties as 230,000 men killed, 720,000 wounded and 178,000 missing.

He said the Russians had lost 7,000 tanks against Hitler's claim of 18,000 tanks destroyed; 8,900 guns against Hitler's claim of 22,000; and 5,316 planes against Hitler's claim of 14,000.

Charging that Hitler was "afraid of telling the truth" on German losses to the German people and thus had failed to cite a single German figure, Shcherbakov declared that in addition to the 3,000,000 casualties the Nazis have lost 11,000 tanks, 13,000 guns and 9,000 planes.

The Washington Merry-go-Round

• by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—One of the president's major foreign policy contentions is that the refusal of Congress in the summer of 1939 to approve his recommendation that the Neutrality Act be modified was a leading factor in precipitating the European war. Had the law been amended to permit the delivery of arms, he holds, Hitler would have thought twice before pulling the trigger.

This thesis has been hotly controverted by isolationists, who blocked the plan to revise neutrality. The late Senator William E. Borah attacked it, and said only a few weeks before the invasion of Poland that he had highly authoritative assurances there would be no war.

But in Manchester, N. H., Wednesday, a leading Republican senator, who has been a bitter New Deal foe, will publicly back up Roosevelt's contention. Sen. Styles Bridges will declare "that there might not have been a war" had Congress followed Roosevelt's counsel.

Senator Bridges will say that Hitler began hostilities because he felt "secure in the belief that the United States would not interfere," and that the factor that gave him this assurance was the Neutrality Act which put the U. S. "in a straitjacket as far as international relations are concerned and prevented important help to besieged, oppressed and attacked nations."

Senator Bridges will also assert flatly that if Congress had not finally, on Roosevelt's insistence, repealed the arms embargo, Britain today would be defeated and the United States at war.

Jesse Jones' New Suit
Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and RFC boss, is one of the wealthiest men in Washington. In Houston, Tex., he owns banks, office buildings and a prosperous newspaper. He also has loaned more government money than any man in history. But personally the tall, soft-voiced Texan is a most careful spender.

So when he appeared at a press conference decked out in a new suit, the event immediately aroused the curiosity of the newsmen.

"Snappy suit, you got there, Mr. Secretary," remarked a correspondent.

"Yes, it's pretty nice, isn't it?" replied Jones. "And it was a bargain. I waited until the end of summer when prices are cheap before buying it."

Good News
Here is good news for the Americas.

One week after Brig. Gen. Russell Maxwell was removed as head of the Export Control Administration and the redtape-stymied agency was placed under the control of Vice-President Wallace's Economic Defense Board, more than one-third of $170,000,000 worth of Latin-American orders were cleared for shipment.

For personal reasons there has been no public announcement of this action, but it is one of the most important developments in a long time in the furtherance of Good Neighbor relations.

South American countries are now in the throes of a complete reorientation of their foreign trade. German, Italian and Japanese elements are being eliminated and buyers are increasingly turning to the U. S. for goods. This makes the prompt filling of orders of utmost importance.

But under Maxwell, the Export Control Administration became a bottleneck of long-drawn-out delays and endless irritations. More than $170,000,000 worth of Latin-American business booked by U. S. firms was stalled on docks while the ECA leisurely fiddled with clearance certificates.

But once Wallace took over, the situation changed overnight. Under the two-fisted action of his principal assistants, Executive Director Milo Perkins and Lieut. Col. Royal B. Lord, brilliant army engineer, things began to move fast and furious. Working day and night, they are rushing through hundreds of certificates, clearing more than $60,000,000 worth in one week.

Reams of export applications, which under Maxwell had been peremptorily rubber stamped "license refused," were reconsidered and approved. The decks are not cleared yet, but Perkins and Lord have made a good start at getting them cleaned up very soon.

NOTE: The State Department, whose Munitions Control Bureau under Joseph C. Green is one of the worst bureaucratic bottlenecks in Washington, made a strenuous undercover effort to get control of ECA, but was rebuffed by the White House.

Merry-Go-Round
A few days after the Germans invaded Russia, a State Department official bet that the Nazis would not take Moscow before August 15. After he had won that bet, he made another, with October 1 as the date. Now he has won that bet, and is betting that Moscow will not be taken before spring, if at all. . . . Several high-up public servants are wearing little gold boxing gloves presented them by public-spirited Dr. John A. Ross of Detroit. He has given them to Henry Wallace, Wendell Willkie, Bob Jackson, J. Edgar Hoover and several others as a token of their championing the cause of the public.

Raskob's 100,000 Acres
The biggest current land purchase in the United States is now being negotiated by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National committee when Al Smith tried to defeat Hoover. Ironically, his associate in the deal is Tom Campbell, one of Hoover's close friends. It is a deal involving 100,000 acres of New Mexican land, forcing hundreds of small farmers to join the vast army of migrant workers.

Raskob, who helped build up General Motors and is a leading figure in the DuPont organizations, owns a big farm on the eastern shore of Maryland. But recently, he has been credited with an ambition to run for the Senate from New Mexico, a state which sent Bronson Cutting, wealthy New Yorker, to the Senate, and where ex-Secretary of War Pat Hurley also is making political medicine.

Tom Campbell, who is helping Raskob, is probably the world's biggest wheat farmer, operating 95,000 acres in Montana. He also was hired by the Soviet government to organize its mass-production wheat farming on ten million acres.

Raskob and Campbell now plan the same type of mass-production agriculture in New Mexico. They already own 216,000 acres and are getting 100,000 acres more in a manner which has brought harsh criticism from the U. S. Agriculture Department.

Raskob Acres, in Taos county, is populated by the descendants of the original Spanish settlers, living on a grant which New Mexico knows as Sangre de Cristo (Blood of Christ). Although squatters, they had lived on the land for generations, tolerated by a development company which agreed that they could live adjacent to the rivers.

U. S. Kept Out
This company, however, became delinquent in taxes, and at this point Tom Campbell stepped in on behalf of Raskob. There are not many places in the U. S. A. where you can buy 100,000 acres at one clip, and Campbell is a shrewd buyer. To prevent competitive bidders, he is arranging for the development company to pay up its delinquent taxes and then turn over the land to him.

Under the law, the owner has the first right to redeem his land, and this arrangement of paying up taxes first has kept the property from being boosted in price by open bidding. Even more important, it has prevented the U. S. government from stepping in, for the settlers had asked the Farm Security Administration to make them a loan with which they could have taken over part of the land.

Farm Security is still trying to make a deal with Campbell, while Senator Chavez of New Mexico, for humanitarian as well as political motives, is trying to prevent the eviction.

But meanwhile Campbell has called for bids to build a fence round the Sangre de Cristo grant.

So They Say

In short, the lawyer must be a philosopher, as well as a craftsman.—District Attorney Thomas Dewey, New York.

You can cultivate the brutal until it conquers you, or you can cultivate the lovely until it has become a reality in your life.—Dr. Louis C. Wright, president, Baldwin-Wallace college.

The human heart can seem to leap, to leak, to palpitate. Hearts can hop, skip, and jump, and yet life goes on.—Dr. Louis F. Bishop and Ruth V. Bennett in heart diseases.

Looking Backward

Fidelity Council No. 53, Knights and Ladies of Security met in regular session Friday evening to install officers for the ensuing year. Dr. McFarland, ruling president, urged the Fidelity to go to the 300 column before the district convention. Queen City council installed its officers-elect last night.

R. E. Fennell, Kansas City, has taken a position in the Missouri Pacific offices here as stenographer for Transportation Clerk W. D. Collins and Assistant Chief Clerk R. S. Yost. Fennell succeeds C. A. Perkins, who recently accepted a position with the Katy at Denison, Tex.

At the Friday night meeting of the Georgetown Literary society a debate was held on the question: "Resolved, that all laws or rules are a failure, in-so-far as they do not offer a reward for conduct and action." The affirmative was represented by Messrs. Ralph Dow and U. F. Sargent. Negative speakers were Harry Shepard and Roland Ebersole, who decided in favor of the negative. The next debate will be "Resolved, that the theaters have been a factor for good education."

The football game yesterday between the Warrensburg State Normal team and the Central Business college squad ended in a score of 16-0 in favor of Warrensburg. The C. B. S. squad was at a weight disadvantage, averaging 10 pounds less than the visitors.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 12, 1941.
Golden Text: Jeremiah 17:14. "Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved; for thou art my praise."
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil; Learn to do well." (Isa. 1: 16, 17 to 3.)
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God, Spirit, alone created all, and called it good. Therefore evil, being contrary to good, is unreal, and cannot be the product of God. Only those who repent of sin and forsake the unreal, can fully understand the unreality of evil" (p-339).

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be more than just a nasty habit! It may be a sign of worms. Yes, ugly, crawling roundworms inside your child! Born in Louisville, Ky.

Justice Brandeis was born in Louisville, Ky., November 13, 1856, the son of Adolf and Fredrika (Dembitz) Brandeis. His father, a native of Prague, now capital of Czechoslovakia, came to the United States in 1848 and built up a successful grain business.

The son went through the Louisville schools, and then studied in the Realschule of Dresden, Saxony. He entered the law school of Harvard in 1875, when Longfellow, Lowell, Dr. Holmes and Ralph Waldo Emerson still were on the college faculty, was graduated LL. B. in 1877, took a year of post-graduate work, practiced in St. Louis in 1878 and then moved to Boston.

On March 23, 1891, he married Alice Goldmark of New York. Two daughters were born to them.

The Brandeis family made public the following message from President Roosevelt to Mrs. Brandeis:

"My heart goes out to you and yours in the loss of a loved—and loving husband and father, who was my faithful friend through the long years.

"Mrs. Roosevelt joins me in this assurance of deepest sympathy.

"The whole nation will bow in reverence to the memory of one whose life in the law, both as advocate and judge, was guided by the finest attributes of mind and heart and soul.

"In his passing American jurisprudence has lost one whose years, whose wisdom and whose broad spirit of humanism made him a tower of strength."

Instructs J. C. Grand Jury To Do Its Duty

Judge Blair Tells Jurors To Reach One and Reach All

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Sam Blair charged a Cole county grand jury today to "Reach for one, reach for all" in an investigation of shake-down rumors which engulfed the close of Missouri's 61st General Assembly.

Blair reviewed the rumors and accusations of vote buying which circulated about the dying days of the legislature and declared: "If there has been bribery and official corruption x x x and you obtain evidence of this in the light of my charge, indict every guilty party.

"And do not stop with indicting the corrupt official, but indict also the person who corrupts him. I see no difference between the two. There would be no bribery if there were not bribers to give bribes.

"Make No Distinction"

"Therefore, make no distinction, and when you reach for one reach for all x x x in searching for the guilty look to all places, high and low."

The grand jury was called specifically to investigate rumors that some legislative votes were offered for sale during the legislature which closed July 12.

The young judge—former federal prosecutor who helped the government smash the Pendergast machine at Kansas City—spoke in low, deliberate tones as he presented his charge to the jury of Jefferson City businessmen and neighborhood farmers.

Reviewed Scandals

He reviewed the legislative scandals which began with Chas. M. Hay's sensational speech from the steps of the capitol in which the St. Louis lawyer accused members of the legislature of attempting a shake-down. He told of the legislature's own perfunctory investigation and of how the matter was dropped without action on adjournment day.

"And so the whole business lies on our doorstep," he said. "We cannot turn aside from it. We cannot simply say 'It is the legislature's business.'"

"It was the legislature's business, to be sure, but the legislature and the law have now made it our business. x x x I charge you to answer the challenge of the House of Representatives by exerting every effort to determine whether or not these accusations are true."

Blair's charge did not stop with the Hay speech.

Mentions Slush Fund

"Persons interested in legislation, lobbyists and the press, directly or indirectly, made further charges that huge slush funds were raised and distributed to members of the general assembly whose votes were bought and sold," he said.

"One lobbyist even charged in the public press x x x that a member of the general assembly asked him to make an offer for the purchase of votes of an entire metropolitan delegation of legislators."

More Charges

"In addition, there have been charges that public offices have sometimes been offered for sale.

"Public talk has been rife x x x and talk of legislative corruption is referred to as 'common gossip' x x x

"The people of the state are entitled to know the facts x x x if these charges are true every guilty man should be indicted, prosecuted and punished. x x x

"You simply follow the law, the facts and your oaths and the consequences are not of your making. The consequences are the making of the law violators who have invited them."

Suggests Use Public

Blair suggested that the grand jury call upon the general public for any information.

Attorney General Roy McKittick was in the courtroom as the jury was charged. He and Governor Forrest C. Donnell put special investigators—backed by state funds—into the investigation with Cole County Prosecutor Carl F. Wymore. Their study led them into every section of the state.

Wymore said Saturday the investigators had statements from about 110 of the 184 legislators and estimated between 100 and 150 witnesses would appear before the body.

Waters Receding In County After Heavy Rains of Last Week End

at Warsaw. Bottom lands around Warsaw were covered by the overflow from the lake. Water was still rising, but slowly.

TUSCUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 6.—(AP)

A record crest on the flooded Osage river rolled past Tuscumbia today and headed toward St. Thomas but weather observers believed the worst high water since 1895 had reached its peak with a minimum of damage.

Bright, warm sunshine covered the watershed of the huge Lake of the Ozarks today. Forecasters said more showers were in prospect, but only heavy rains will increase the danger.

The water level was falling at Bagnell Dam. All 12 flood gates were open but only two were flowing to capacity.

A 39.1 foot crest on the Osage reached here shortly after midnight, sending the muddy water coursing through the business district of this hillside Ozark community. Water-wise residents had gone from the flood's reach hours before, however, and residents said the principal damage would be to the fall corn crop.

Water Dropping

Tuscumbians estimated it would take five days for the water to leave the town. It had dropped a half a foot by this morning.

"About all the damage that can be done already has been done," said C. B. Wright, a Tuscumbia mill operator. Only about half a dozen families were flooded from their homes here. More than a dozen families had to get out.

Officials at Lake Ozark said the flood—while the worst in five decades—actually would cause no more damage than the high water which rushes along the Osage about once every five years.

Considerable Damage

Unofficial estimates of damage in two northeastern Missouri counties spiraled upward as surveys disclosed dislocated rail and communication lines, inundated highways and washed out crops.

No casualties have been reported.

Earlier unofficial estimates of $75,000 to $100,000 damage in Lincoln county today were declared far short of the actual mark, while from Pike county came stories of concentrated damage totaling more than in Lincoln county.

Troy is virtually cut off by bridge and rail washouts. Thousands of acres of farm land have been flooded and much livestock drowned. Elsberry, where low parts of the town were inundated, has one road open to the west but otherwise is isolated.

Water Over Bridge

State highway officials said damage to Highway No. 47 between Troy and Winfield would total $30,000. On Highway 61, one mile north of Troy, water from the Cuivre river stood two feet above a bridge, the floor of which, said old residents, was built four feet above all previous high water marks.

Burlington railroad trains moving north have been cancelled and units moving southward have been re-routed from Louisiana east to White Hall, Ill., and then south to St. Louis. The road said normal service was expected by tomorrow morning.

Roads Blocked

The highway patrol reported the following roads blocked by high water.

U. S. 66 at Carthage, alternate route being used.

State route 35 at Warsaw, 83 at Fairfield, 127 south of Sweet Springs, 17 between Tuscumbia and Eugene, 87 south of California and 79 at old Monroe and south of Louisiana, Mo.

Bond Experts Seek Clues To Interest Rates

Waiting For U. S. To Announce Borrowing Plans

By FRANK McMILLEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(The Special News Service)—Wall Street's big banks and "discount houses," principal dealers in United States government securities, were watching Washington today for announcement of a treasury borrowing operation expected to top a billion dollars, the largest transaction of the kind in more than four years.

The announcement was expected some time this week, and was awaited with more than normal interest, not only for its size, which some money men guessed as high as $1,250,000,000, but also because it may furnish a tip-off on the price the government—and so all other borrowers—will pay for money in coming months.

Money market experts have their fingers crossed for some time as defense spending, and borrowing, has grown.

May Pay More

Some thought the time may be near, if not immediately present, when the government would have to pay a better price—afford the investor a better return on his money—than it has in the abnormally "easy" money period of recent years.

Money, these men pointed out, in many ways follows the laws of supply and demand, just as in the case of merchandise.

With the government borrowing huge sums in the money market—it should reach some $3,000,000,000 this year, with another $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 realized from defense bonds, stamps and tax anticipation notes sold direct to smaller investors—this law of supply and demand is bound eventually to operate, most observers believe.

It's Anybody's Guess

Whether it would show up in the new financing, expected to be the largest amount since the government sought $1,000,000,000 in June 1936, following the soldiers' bonus payment, appeared anybody's guess.

Many bond men seemed to think Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau would offer the a combination of short, medium and long-term securities, designed to snag as many kinds of investment money as possible.

Center of discussion was the interest rate the government would place on the long term bonds, probably running 15 years or more before payable, with some guesses extending to 25 years.

Bond Sales Lagging

With the government making a drive—recent figures indicate sales have been increasingly lagging—to sell defense bonds to small investors with a 2½ per cent return, observers believe the treasury would not try to sell bonds with a lesser return to the money market.

Bond men suggested the treasury, and its ally, the Federal Reserve Board in Washington, may have reconciled themselves to paying a somewhat higher return on borrowed money in coming months.

They pointed to the recent order of the board "tightening" credit by raising the reserves commercial banks must keep against deposits.

While the amount of the boost in reserve requirements was small, about one seventh, it was all allowed by present law, and the board was said to be about to ask congress for a law permitting much further tightening of screws on bank lending.

Agencies Don't See Alike

The treasury indicated its acceptance of the board's move to hold down credit, although the two agencies, at the beginning of this year, had not seen eye to eye on the problem.

The board, worried about a war-time spiraling of prices, which might be partially checked by making credit "artificially scarce," asked for more controls over bank lending.

The treasury, faced with enormous borrowing to keep up defense spending expected to average $2,000,000,000 a month in the next year, was reluctant to see any move which, by making credit scarce, might tend to make it pay more for borrowed money.

If the two agencies now are more concerned by the course of prices in the country, than by the interest rate the government must pay to borrow, money experts said, the turn may be near when interest rates may start to lift, or conversely, high grade bond prices go down.

With the new tax slapping $4 per gallon on whisky and 6 per cent on phone bills, here's a tip—drink less and you'll talk less.

Seven Blocks of 350 Houses Once Stood Here

Four months' clearing labor completes work of German bombs in the dockland section of London, leaving a great area bare except for the little surface shelters that stood up under the attacks.

The brilliant colors that artists produced in famed museum canvases inspire many new, fine coat fabrics, and here's a striking example of that trend. The cloth is wool of the brilliant blue that appears in Renoir's "By the Seashore" portrait, pictured with the model. Other trend-setting points of this new coat are the petal collar and the nutria banding on the skirt front, rounded shoulders, and full, shirred bodice and skirt.

Religious Freedom Is A Bulwark

Rabbi States Americans Owe Debt To Newspapers

There are unfortunately few countries still left in the world where the observance of a National Newspaper Week could evoke the spontaneous and widespread popular enthusiasm which such an occasion is bound to elicit in the United States of America. No American can fail to realize how intimately his own personal freedom is bound up with the freedom of the press, nor how great a debt of gratitude he owes the remarkable institution of the American newspaper.

Reevaluating
All of us at one time or another in the past have damned this or that paper or the press as a whole with either bitter invective or faint praise. Yet now in a shattering world crisis, we begin to see how even our journalistic worst was so much better than the best almost everywhere else in the world; and in our attitude toward the newspaper we find ourselves reevaluating many a prejudice which in more carefree days we allowed to run rampant. We see how truly blessed we have been in our American press and how much the preservation of its dignity and freedom involves our lives as free men and women.

Religion Suffers Persecution
Particularly do we of the religious leadership of America feel this sense of appreciation and gratitude. The sad days of the present world have shown us that when tyranny suppresses freedom, it is religion which inevitably suffers the most dire persecution. And we have learned that not any one religion but all concepts of God's overlordship meet the same oppressive cruelty at the hands of those who would enslave mankind. Catholic, Protestant and Jew—a pastor Niemöller alongside his priestly or rabbinical fellow-clergyman—suffer the martyrdom of the concentration camp.

Can Worship In Freedom
This intensified appreciation of our common challenge in the face of tyranny has worked in both directions. Religion is more than ever conscious of the fact that a free press represents the indispensable environment in which man can seek and worship God in freedom.

On the other hand, the press itself has come to recognize more keenly than ever that free religious institutions constitute democracy's strongest bulwark, and thus the defender of that way of life in which alone it is possible for a truly free press to exist. So it is that there has been a constantly increasing attention to religion and religious life by the newspapers of America.

National Newspaper Week signifies these profound facts in our American life today. Its observance should reach into every church and synagogue, school and home.

Troop No. 54 met Monday night, September 29 at the First Methodist church. A short business meeting was held, in which we discussed plans for attending the Smith-Cotton vs. Clinton football game at Clinton on October 3. We were honored to have several boys from the Evangelical church to visit us. These boys are organizing a troop of their own under the leadership of Mr. Satterwhite. Mr. McKinney our district executive was also present. Everyone entered in the games. Mr. Lambirth furnished refreshments for the group, pop and Dagwood sandwiches. The meeting was closed with the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, led by Scout Lee Peabody.

Troop No. 56 had its regular meeting Monday night at 7:15 at Washington school. The meeting was opened with the Scout Oath and Law. The roll was called with nineteen scouts present. We studied on signaling in patrol corners. After several games we were dismissed by repeating the Scout Masters Benediction.

The Rover Crew met Thursday night at the Elks club with seventeen Scouts present. Albert Steiner opened the meeting leading the crew in the Scout Oath. Crew leader Harry Lambirth appointed L. W. Satorius as first mate, and J. E. Morrow as scribe. A general organization meeting was held. The crew voted to have meetings the first Thursday of each month. Also to help promote the pot luck supper in November and work on plans for the program at the annual meeting in December.

I wonder why we haven't heard from Old Scouter "Bill." They say his weekly chat was an inspiration and people looked for his articles each week as sound principals in scouting.

Troop 53 of Jefferson school had a meeting last Monday night, September 29, at 7:30 p. m. and were out by 8:45. We opened our meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance, The Scout Oath and the Scout Laws. Mr. Alley, our Scoutmaster, Mr. Finley, our assistant Scoutmaster and Mr.

Walker, our committeeman were present.

Mr. Steiner brought over two boys from his troop. They were Claude Lambirth and Bob Hunt. Bob helped the boys with their second class tests and Claude helped the boys who were going to be first class scouts. Mr. Alley, Mr. Walker and Mr. Finley helped the new boys with their tenderfoot tests. We want to thank Claude and Bob for helping us and we will look forward to having them back.

At 8:20 we played "Steal the Bacon," after which we closed the meeting with the Scoutmaster's Benediction.

Mr. Shores, Scoutmaster of the Broadway troop, was also a visitor. We were glad to have him and hope he comes back again.

CHAPTER XXIV

AS Judy, escorted by two cheerful officers, entered the side gate to the prisoner's docket, she drew back. She had not expected such an audience.

The commissioner for the Federal Court was in charge today. Suddenly she was aware that her gray calico dress was wrinkled. One foot was encased in an old house slipper, a man's house shoe, size 12, but it did not interfere with the bandages on her arch. She wore its companion on her other foot.

She had neither lipstick, rouge, eyebrow shadow, or a comb to untangle her knotted hair. She looked, she admitted to herself, like a housemaid who had enjoyed a good time somewhere.

Her foot pained a little. There was blood on the bandage. She tried to sit on that foot, but an officer saw the change of position, motioned to the court matron who led her into an inner room where the police doctors cleansed and rebound the wound.

Once more she faced the courtroom. Her eyes went from face to curious face. These people had come to see what an ex-deb, a girl who had made a place for herself among Manhattan's career women, looked like. Some faces were hostile, faces of little people whose streets never had traveled far. More faces were kind and sympathetic, though their outward paths had gone no farther.

WHEN her name was called Judy walked swiftly, trying not to limp, to the witness chair. At the edge of the second step her bandage caught in a torn piece of carpet.

Judy fell across the steps. If she cried she might make an impression on the commissioner. Men hated tears but they usually did something about them. She couldn't cry, though.

She could only laugh. Laugh until she was assisted to the witness chair.

After order had been established in the courtroom, she instinctively addressed the federal commissioner who acted as judge. After all she had nothing to win, nothing to lose.

"Yesterday I was in my stocking foot—I lost one slipper when I jumped for freedom. My foot got tangled with a nail, you see. And now your worn carpet upset me again. I'm sorry but I can't pay for the medical assistance until I have worked out my fine."

She smiled straight into the eyes of the federal commissioner. She wasn't sure if he smiled or frowned. Life would be rather nice if people would take off their masks. No, it wouldn't. It would be horrible. Life's privacy would be gone. Now she could hate Sandy forever and no one would guess that she might—just might—have liked him a little.

HER case proceeded calmly. She was required to pay a fine of $1000 and costs. She couldn't. She was led back to her cell after a judicial lecture. Just as she left the court by the side door she thought she saw Sandy entering at the front. So he had come to see how low he had brought her! The door through which she was passing closed so quickly she could not follow him.

Judy was not returned to her cell. Long distance wanted her. It was her father. He said all of the things that she had hoped he would say before. Now they sounded like stilted, tenpenny words. Three things she understood. Sandy had been trying to reach him without result. He had succeeded finally, would accept charges of kidnapping, and his rival was flying to Judy to pay her fine and bring her home.

So it had been Sandy whom she had seen in the courthouse. What did he want? Why had he come?

She hung up. She had to get to Sandy fast. Dear, brave, lovable Sandy, who would risk everything for her, even go to jail if need be! Why, that was security! And it was love. Dear, crazy, barnstorming, loyal, steadfast Sandy who was all the things that Phil never could be! He wasn't afraid!

LOVE wasn't something that you kept in a house. It was a thing that lived in the heart. She knew now.

"Mr. Ammerman? Where is he?" she asked the attendant at the desk, near the telephone. "He just went out. Turned to the right."

She began to run, forgetful of the calico dress and the flopping slippers. Far down the street she saw Sandy. She ran faster. Somebody set up a chase.

"Prisoner escaping! Stop her!" "I'm not! My fine's paid!" she called back, but she heard the thud of pursuing feet. Sandy turned. He stopped, startled, and then came running toward her. The crowd waited. She noted that there were sleepless circles under the aviator's eyes and that he needed a shave.

"Quick, Sandy," she said. "We've got to get away. Phil's coming—you're being arrested for kidnapping me." She was pulling at his arm.

He looked down at her and grinned. "Where are we going, nut?"

"Idiot! Canada—any place beyond the law. Wasn't wasn't that what you wanted?"

The crowd gasped as the man in the khaki aviator's outfit and the girl in the prison garb kissed each other in the middle of the street. Then Sandy hailed a taxicab and told the driver to step on the gas and make the air field.

Inside the cab, he said, "Judy, I've been thinking things over. I was a heel. I'm a poor pilot who can't give you the ballast you need. Still . . ."

She put one hand over his mouth. "There's only one ballast. Love. I just found out."

How had she thought she could put him out of her mind like one dismissed a book by not reading it any more or a street by never walking down it again? She caught her breath because that was so nearly what she had done!

Sandy opened a paper that was making a bulge in his pocket. "Just picked this up after I left the jail five minutes ago. Maybe I can buy you a house with a couple of trees, if you'll take it small."

Judy read, "Aeronautical Company Bids for Pilot's Chute Used in Kidnaping."

"We work together grand," Judy said.

"You said it!" Sandy agreed, and kissed her again.

Grover Cleveland Rose Rapidly in Politics

MANY foreign countries have issued stamps honoring great men of the United States. The 1939 stamp above, philatel-ically honored Grover Cleveland, 22nd and 24th president of the United States. It was issued by Brazil in commemoration of the New York World's Fair. Cleveland was born in Caldwell, N. J., March 18, 1837. He received an academic education, became a clerk in a Buffalo, N. Y., law office in 1855.

After being admitted to the bar in 1859, he entered politics. He was assistant district attorney from 1863 to 1866, sheriff of Erie county from 1870 to 1873 and in 1881 he was elected mayor of Buffalo.

Cleveland's frugality in administering city government drew wide attention. In 1883 he was elected governor of New York and one year later he became president of the United States, defeating James G. Blaine, Republican. He ran for re-election in 1888 but was defeated by Benjamin Harrison. He practiced law in New York City until 1892, was again nominated for the presidency and this time defeated President Harrison.
